There is no tribute one can give in words to a man who lived humbly, with a kindly interest in his fellow men and home. "Bob as he was familiarly known to his friends possessed a kind and generous nature that endeared him to all. The sadness in the hearts of the many peo-ple, who claimed his friendship is the surest token of respect that. those who mourn his passing can offer.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife Amanda, one half brother, Wilbur P. Leonard of Bellevue, two half sisters, Mrs. Grace Jones and Mrs. Doris Fel both of Charlotte.
