

er in fact it is Morgan and Randall boy and forever one and inseparable.
Favorite pastime: silence.

JOHN HALL

A quiet, retiring boy of a studious turn of mind. He is much interested in foot-ball and has won great fame in the games of the high school's past record. However, his forte seems to be languages.

GRACE HAYNES

The life and spirit of the class.
She has unlimited talent as a singer and gave promise of some day be coming a prima donna, had she not missed her calling and decided to be a teacher. Young as she is, she has already commenced taking lessons under one of our leading grocery clerks on a full schedule which nightly goes, dark nights excepted. Her ability as a student has never been questioned.
No ragged edge, never late but once.

Commencement Week Program.

The following is the program of the several features which will take place during the next week which marks the closing of twelve years of hard and constant work for a number of young ladies and gentlemen who will start upon a new chapter in life's struggle for supremacy.

BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS:

The baccalaureate sermon will be given in the Congregational church next Sunday evening by Father Conner of Hastings.

CLASS DAY

The Class Day exercises for which a very interesting program has been arranged will take place at the opera house Wednesday evening June 14th at which time the diplomas will be presented.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS.

Thursday evening the Commencement Address will be given by Prof.
T. W. Nadal of Olivet College. The subject of the discourse will be "The Vision of Youth."

NELLIE MOORE

Better known as "Ikey." Always seen at the noon hour with a German book, looking for some one with whom to translate. For several years she has been well cared for by a popular young man of the village; and of late her friends have marvelled at the amount of time required for the selection of Nellie's new gowns. Favorite pastime; being popular.

CLAIR BECK

The light of the class. Little but Oh, My! He has won great fame by his willingness to fill all vacancies in tennis games. He is undergoing a tempering process, preparatory to the summer's haying and expect to use this temper in the fall when he commences teaching. During younger days he has waited on several girls but now, alas! he's stranded, though earnestly seeking for Moore. Favorite pastime, talking.

OLIVE HANDELL

After a career of faithful application to her studies she has come out victor and claims the honors of the class. She also aspires to be a teach-ess; the office probably

Strange as it may seem, on the 20th. day of April, 1929 our good friend Ed. Pilbean passed the age of 81. Ed. has lived a good useful life and from all appearances probably will live 20 or 30 years more. Now one remarkable thing about Ed. is the fact that he has been a Mason for 60 years having been raised in Tecumseh Lodge Number 59, Tecumseh, this state, and has had his life membership a good many years. It is not only fair and fitting at this time to wish Ed. a long life and much happiness, and all the good things that go therewith. It is hoped and expected by the writer, together with a host of other Masons, that we see Ed. more often at lodge. However, at 81 it is quite a proposition to come out in the evening, but nevertheless Ed. has promised that he will come.
So that is that.
