

Alva H. Kimmel, 66 Passed Away Monday

Alva H. Kimmel, 66, passed away early Monday morning at his farm home on route 3, west of town. A native of Eaton county Roxand township, he had spent most of his life in that area moving here from Mulliken twelve years ago.

Mr. Kimmel was employed as an inspector at the Ionia Manufacturing Co., at Ionia until retiring because of ill health.

Surviving are his wife Beulah and four daughters: Mrs. Henry (Dawn) Cramer of Mulliken, Mrs. Damon (Mary Jane) McClelland of Woodland, Mrs. Frank (Helen) Hammond of Springport and Mrs. Max (Janet) Haney of Lake Odessa; one son, Robert A. of Lake Odessa, a brother, Bert of Nashville, 17 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 1:30 at the Picken funeral chapel, with burial in Lakeside cemetery. Rev. Max Ovenshire officiated.

Lunch Supervisor Dies Sunday Night

(Special to The State Journal)

POTTERVILLE, Feb. 13—Mrs. Leona E. Hickox, 54, of Potterville, died Sunday evening at a Charlotte hospital.

She was supervisor of the Potterville school lunch program.

She had been hospitalized for about a week.

Survivors include the husband, Russell; two sons, Robert and Charles, both of Potterville; two daughters, Mrs. Carl Brooks, and JoAnn, both of Potterville; the mother, Mrs. Margaret Maurer, Lansing; three brothers, William Maurer, Flint, Delbert Maurer, Potterville, and Floyd Maurer of Lansing; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Sherman, Potterville, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Potterville Methodist church. The body is at the Burkhead-Cheney funeral home, Charlotte.

Ex-Editor Dies at 80

George B. Dolliver Once Published Newspaper At Battle Creek

BATTLE CREEK, Jan. 18 (AP)—George B. Dolliver, a former Battle Creek newspaper editor who rounded out his career as theater, art and music critic died here today at the age of 80.

A native of Battle Creek, Dolliver entered newspaper work at the age of 15 as a reporter for the old Battle Creek Moon and later became editor of the paper. In 1915, the Moon and the Battle Creek Journal were consolidated into the Moon-Journal and Dolliver became editor and publisher.

Battle Creek became a one-newspaper city in 1940 with the consolidation of the Moon-Journal into the Battle Creek Enquirer er and News. Dolliver continued with the Enquirer and News in executive and editorial capacities, later devoting his full time to theater, music and art reviews.

DIES AT 80—George B. Dolliver, Battle Creek newspaperman and publisher for 65 years, died at Battle Creek early today. The above picture was taken many years ago. (Story on Page 1.)

(Picture on Page 22)

In failing health for the past five years, Dolliver until a few months ago contributed a Sunday column to the Enquirer and News titled "Music and Art with a Local Angle." He had studied music in Paris.

Prominent in civic and lodge affairs for many years, he was a past grand master of the Masonic lodge in Michigan.

He leaves his widow, Mabelle, and a son, John Clark Dolliver. Another son, Lt. George B. Dolliver, Jr., was killed in action on Saipan in 1944.

John Caskie Cook, ... Justice Douglas. Districts of northern California, Nevada, Montana, eastern Washington, western Washingtons of Alaska and Hawaii.

western south Carolina. Judges—Morris A. Soper, northern Georgia, southern da, northern Alabama, southern Mississippi, uthern Texas, eastern Circuit judges—Samuel and Yazoo City, Miss.; reans, La.; Robert L.

northern Ohio, southern ky, western Kentucky,

it judges—Charles C. Shackelford Miller, Jr., F. McAllister, Grand

of Indiana, northern and western Wiscon-es—Otto Kerner, Chi-anegan, Chicago, Ill.; olis, Ind.

nesota, northern Iowa, n Arkansas, western

S. Dakota. Circuit rough, Omaha, Nebr.; ha, Neb.; Walter G. lo.

70